

Good Energies Portfolio Company EverPower Wind Holdings Acquired by Terra Firma

New York, November 3, 2009 – Good Energies, a leading global investor in the renewable energy and energy efficiency industries, announced today the completion of the sale of its stake in EverPower Wind Holdings, Inc., a North American wind power development company to Terra Firma. Terra Firma intends to invest $350 million to continue to develop the pipeline.

Established in 2002, EverPower is a wind developer that owns an operational 62 megawatt project in Pennsylvania and is currently developing 800 megawatts of near-term projects in seven states. The Company has a total pipeline of more than 3,500 megawatts. EverPower seeks to identify or acquire development opportunities in the Northeastern, Pacific Northwest, and Mid-Atlantic Regions of the United States and in other select locations where EverPower has a strategic reason for pursuing project opportunities.

“Good Energies is pleased to have funded the development and growth of EverPower’s pipeline and helped them build their first operational wind farm,” said Michael Ware, managing director at Good Energies. “Terra Firma is investing in an outstanding management team and platform with a demonstrated track record of success in wind development. We believe EverPower will be one of the leading North American wind developers and wish the management team and Terra Firma future success.”

With a total capacity of 29,440 megawatts of wind power, the U.S. is one of world’s largest installers of wind generation. EverPower has strategically developed its portfolio in states that have favorable economics, a strong wind resource and an increasing demand for renewable power.

“We appreciate the funding and guidance from Good Energies over the past two years and are happy to have completed our first North American wind project,” said Jim Spencer, CEO of EverPower. “In order to fully capitalize on the opportunities in the North American wind market, we are excited to move forward with Terra Firma to build EverPower to the next level.”
